

Economists To Hold Conclave At S. J. College

Dr. Cadman from U. C., Will Open Conference on February 21

An unprecedented event on the San Jose State campus is to take place in the form of an economic conference on February 21, 22, and 23—a miniature of the World Economic Conference to be held by the League of Nations in London this June.

This conference is a privilege which will, no doubt, turn out to be one of the most interesting events ever featured on the campus.

Professor Cadman, from the University of California, is to open the conference, and he will be followed by many other noted speakers. Every phase of culture, including art, literature, music, and others, will be covered during the sojourn of the conference. This will afford an unusual as well as enlightening opportunity to learn something outside of the classroom.

Participation in this conference is largely confined to our own campus, but guest invitations are being sent to schools, colleges, and individuals outside the campus.

This unusual affair is sponsored by a group of organizations and individuals on the campus.

Those acting on the executive committee: Co-chairman Dr. William Poytress, well known State professor of Social Science; Miss Lois Larry, Senior Y. W. C. A. cabinet member; treasurer, Mr. Charles Goddard, dean of men; and Miss Ann Aalfs, popular Y. W. C. A. secretary.

The cultural committee is headed by Charlotte Rhines; the economics committee by Charles Pinkham, and the publicity is in charge of Isabel Koehler.

Watch next week's paper for a full program and details of the conference.

Home of Professor Newby Will Be Scene of College French Club Meeting

The French Club will hold a meeting and get-together party at the spacious home of Mr. L. C. Newby, 953 Crest Drive, at 8:00 o'clock this evening. Faculty members, club members, and those who are interested are all invited to attend.

Miss Lois Wool, the president of the club promises a very delightful evening for the occasion. There will be games and songs and Mr. Newby will show some interesting pictures of romantic France. Last, but not least, cakes and other appetizing viands will be followed by punch will be served.

It is requested that those who expect to come to please inform their respective French instructors in order to get an idea of the number that will attend.

Poytress' Speech on Technocracy Enjoyed By the Globe Trotters

Mr. Poytress, of the Social Science Department, spoke to the Globe Trotters, Tuesday, January 1, on the popular subject "Technocracy."

Technocracy has many different names and classifications such as being a story of the Great War, or a turning point in civilization. On the other hand it is thought of by the technocrats as a name of a society or organization, philosophy of human society, and a society in the minds of the people who are working on philosophy.

An analysis of the studies and philosophies of the question bring three important points to view.

1. The machine is the heart of the philosophy which points out the present increased production of commodities and that human labor is rapidly being displaced by the machine. There is the actual conflict between man and machine—their power. Looking to the future, if this continues there will be no place for human labor and economic disaster will result.

2. Technocrats do not care if human labor disappears, then man will have all the leisure he has (Continued on Page Three)

Probation Club To Meet This Evening at Local Church

The Probation Club for the Kappa Phi service organization will hold a meeting Thursday evening, January 19th, at 7:30 o'clock in the annex of the First Methodist Church on the corner of Fifth and Santa Clara Streets.

This club is being newly organized on the campus, and the membership is open to all Methodist women students, and any other women students who are interested.

Rev. Jones Is Speaker at All-College Chapel

Wednesday noon from 12:00 to 12:15 the second All-College Chapel of the quarter was held in the Little Theater. The Rev. Hugh M. Jones, eminent pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of this city, delivered a very interesting five minute talk.

Emily Schwartz, regular All-College Chapel pianist, delivered an excellent viano solo. Joel Carter, because of a bad cold, was unable to sing Mr. Calvin Coolidge's favorite hymn. It is possible that he may do so on next week's program of All-College Chapel.

Spartans Lose Initial Conference Tilt With Pacific Tigers 34 to 18

Local Quintet To Tangle With Tigers Here Saturday Night

Unable to stop a determined Tiger rally in the second half, the San Jose State Spartans dropped their opening conference game to College of Pacific by a score of 34 to 18.

Slim Mathieson was high point man for San Jose, scoring 5 points before he was put out of the game for too many fouls early in the second half.

San Jose trailed by but two points when the gun sounded the intermission, 12-10, but the Spartans slumped badly during the second half and were plainly outclassed when Pacific scored 22 markers to San Jose's 8.

The Spartans only threat came with three minutes to go in the first half. Pacific led 12-4. Mathieson dropped in a set-up shot and repeated a moment later. Score 8-12. Liebrandt came up from guard and sank a long beautiful shot from near center as the half ended with the Bengals leading, 12 to 10.

Pete McCain, Pacific forward, who failed to hit the bucket when the Tigers dropped a twin bill to St. Mary's recently, found his shooting eye and led the scoring with 12 points.

San Jose's lopsided defeat was largely attributable to Captain Norm Countryman's inability to hit the hoop. He was the only Spartan who failed to crash the point column.

Downs, San Jose forward, was one point behind Mathieson, scoring two buckets.

Pacific will travel to San Jose for a return Far Western conference engagement Saturday night.

William Riley Smith Will Entertain at Musical Half-Hour Friday

Mr. William Riley Smith will be presented for the program for Musical Half-Hour Friday, January 20, in the Morris Dailey auditorium.

The program will be entirely of piano selections from many famous and noted composers.

Worthington Prince Elected President of Local Pre-Med Club

An important meeting of the Pre-Med Club was held Wednesday to elect officers for the coming quarter. The results made Worthington Prince president, and Alice Tyson vice president. Al Fredericks is the new secretary-treasurer. Plans were made for another series of talks by prominent local doctors and dentists.

The meeting place has not been decided for this quarter, but the time for the next meeting is Wednesday, January 25, at 5 p. m. when Dr. Charles Ianne, tuberculosis specialist at the County Hospital will speak on "Diagnosis of Tuberculosis Among Students."

He will describe the use of tuberculin and of the X-Ray and will show some of his plates, exemplifying different cases.

All faculty members and students interested are welcome to these meetings.

Bills Will Be Mailed To Students This Quarter as Formerly

Many students have been debating if they should or should not pay their fees for many different reasons. One big question which arose was, will the bills be mailed to the students as before, or should each student figure up his or her own expenses and pay them at the business office.

As in terms long ago, bills will be mailed to the students, except for those fortunate enough not to have any, and the last date possible will be set on the bill. Be sure and watch for the postman.

April 15 Will Be Deadline For Phelan Contest

As Winter quarter draws on apace the time between now and the deadline of the Phelan Memorial Award contest diminishes. April 15 is the latest date upon which aspiring poets, playwrights and writers now attending San Jose State may turn in their manuscripts to compete for the sizable monetary prizes which will be awarded the winners of the contest.

All those thinking of submitting material are urged to do so not later than the above date, for after that time all contributions will be null and void so far as competition is concerned.

So get busy and put it on paper and give your manuscripts to Dr. Barry or any member of the English Department BEFORE APRIL 15th.

Chas. Pinkham Appointed To Lead Forensics

James Fitzgerald Proffers Resignation To Student Body President

Yesterday, Leon Warmke, president of the Associated Student Body, appointed Charles Pinkham as Manager of Forensics for the Winter quarter to succeed Jimmie Fitzgerald, who withdrew because of ineligibility.

Charles is one of the most prominent men on the campus. He is president of the Sophomore class, which office he has held for three consecutive quarters, an active member of the newly organized Spartan Senate, honorary debate organization, and an officer of the Spartan Knights. He is an officer of the Delta Theta Omega fraternity.

His duties as a member of the executive board of San Jose State will be to arrange for and supervise all inter-collegiate debates, write all the necessary correspondence for the Spartan Senate, and maintain the high position that an executive board of office demands.

That Mr. Pinkham is an exceedingly capable and efficient man for the position is evinced by the fact that the student body president honored him with the selection with the full assurance that the office of Forensics Manager would be filled as capably by this popular young student as by any other member of the student body.

Students Asked To Call For Possessions at Lost, Found

College is a place for learning it seems, but the students, if we may call them that, do not seem to realize that this is the time of year when things should not be lost. Christmas is over and it's a sure thing nobody is going to replace your lost articles.

The following people had better come and see what's what and who's who in lost and found instead of America:

Elizabeth Hartwig
Muriel Gossman
Anne Skalka
M. Lee
Bobbie Stanton
Agnes Walden
Herbert Miller
Leonore Smith
Ethelrose Avila
Jean McKinley
Carl Lindstrom
Priscilla Sword
Muriel Goddard
Marion Martin

There are many articles such as gloves, scarfs, belts and purses with no names no them. Come early and avoid the rush or an auction sale may come about; storage may be charged.

Is My Face Red?

Usually it is if I happen to come to a State basketball game with a date. Whether it's a case of jealousy or just bad manners, every time a quiet, unsuspecting couple walk in, there is a loud howl of derision. The booing which greets them is a flagrant breach of etiquette and an example of rudeness one might expect from a back woods high school.

Evidently there is some huge joke connected with bringing a date which most of us haven't heard about. Anyway most of the crowd is more concerned with watching the door for victims than they are in the game itself. They might reserve their lung power for the use it is intended for—cheering. The attendance at the games hasn't been any too good this year, and if students feel that they can't bring a date to them—you know dating IS being done in the best circles—many boys and girls are going to stay away from the contests.

Let's get over this childish habit—it isn't funny and who knows, maybe a girl will accept a date with you some night for a basketball game.

HORIZONS

—Of Sense and Nonsense—

The La Torre staff wish to give away really useful prizes at their dance Friday. They want things that are in the public eye, so they are procuring a box of grape fruit from a vegetable store.

Reupholstering old gags is always interesting, provided that the gags are really worn out.

Here is one: Who was that lady I saw you with last night? That was no lady, that was your wife.

Here is another: Who was that lady I saw you with last night? That was no lady, that was a Spartan Knight.

Well then: Who was that Knight I saw you with, lady?

Who was that piccolo I saw you with last night? That was no piccolo, that was my fate.

I think that is possibly enough of that. Enough is as good as a feast and feast is feast and West should be in the Registrar's office.

Speaking of Registrars, we remind you to budget your time. Time on your hands is worth two in the bush.

If everyone knew what they were talking about, it would be a dull world.

To prove it, just look at the things we couldn't talk about. Technocracy, other people's business, philosophy, the depression, war debt, true love, democracy, 3 1/2 per cent beer, and Einstein.

In fact it's a dull life anyway. To quote a friend—We ought to give the land back to the Indians.

FARMERS' DAUGHTER

She's not been rushed
To join a house
The sisters shun her
Like a louse:
And even friends
Will never tell her—
She cannot land
A single feller.
Her figure's shaped
Like Mother Goose
Without a curve
She looks obtuse:
Her bow legs shiver
In the breeze
And knock together
At the knees.
A farmer's daughter
Bent with grief—
The gal could stand
Some form relief.

Business Trends

A. C. Kelley

When and where will we find that famous corner around which prosperity is supposed to be lurking? This question is of vital interest to every student and teacher in this college. It is all very well to play around with college activities and have a good time, but the day is coming when every one will have to leave the confines of this attractive institution and make his own way in the world and when that day comes will there be a job available? This is the great question which faces every high school and college graduate in the land as well as some 11 million others who now comprise the vast army of the unemployed. A few years ago in 1928 and 1929 the graduates of our universities and colleges had little or no difficulty in finding useful work to do. Some of our great corporations were so eager to get the services particularly of technical graduates that they sent their employment officers to interview and induce these young people to enter their employ. The picture now is wholly changed. The graduating classes of 1930, 1931 and 1932 were not sought after, and the sad fact is that many of these expensively trained people has not yet found a chance to use their training. What a tremendous social and individual waste. Is this appalling condition temporary or will it continue? No one knows and prophets have fallen into disrepute, especially since the economists in general failed utterly to predict this present economic collapse. To be sure there were one or two voices crying in the wilderness, but the most respectable American economists with the biggest reputations, such as Irving Fisher, for example, failed completely to see what was coming.

It is rather dangerous to indulge in prediction, but at least we can look about and attempt to appraise the present conditions and trends, and point out certain facts which will perhaps help to clarify the situation in the minds of the students of this institution and enable them to think more clearly along the lines of economics and politics. There is no field of human thought wherein greater prejudice and mental confusion prevail, than in the field of economics and politics. This fact is most unfortunate in its consequences because the great problems of the day are fundamentally economic and demand a scientific approach for their solution, which simply means an approach with an unbiased open mind which will weigh all the available evidence and then formulate a conclusion which is based on the facts. This appears to be a simple requirement, but it will be found very difficult to achieve for most people because their personal interest and bias distort their judgments and render their conclusions faulty. Teachers and professors are unfortunately not always scientific in their approach to social problems, but at least in theory they believe in the scientific method and they ought to try to follow this method strictly in their own discussions. In the discussions which follow with regard to business and political trends, I will attempt to follow carefully this course.

What is the present condition of business in these United States? We are now entering the fourth year of the great depression and business in general is appallingly poor. This generalization, however, is not wholly true, because some industries are still doing a good business at a profit, notably the monopolies dealing in the necessities of life, such as the water, gas and electric companies, and some of the great retail chain organizations dealing in food and other necessities. It should also be noted that the industry dealing in tobacco, which is supposed to be a luxury, is in a highly prosperous condition although recently severe competition has developed. Even in hard times people must have their cigarettes. However, these examples are exceptions to the general rule that business activity is at a very low ebb in most industries, and many enterprises have been losing money for three years and are today on the verge of bankruptcy. If the present rate of activity continues for another couple of years, undoubtedly many a corporation which is now putting up a great fight, will have to pass out of the picture.

In the next article I will give a few concrete examples of corporations which have come through the depression with flying colors, and also cite a few of those enterprises which have made a valiant but losing fight, and are now hanging on only with the hope that times will soon get better.

—Arthur C. Kelley.

Caliban's Calumnies

My room is an eyrie for seeing about our broken dolls, and yet we ourselves go right ahead and putter around with a lot of pomp and parafornalia just to pay our respects to a dead body. In reality we aren't paying our respects to it at all, we are merely soaping our own silly vanity. When we bring a lot of flowers to funerals it is only because we want to show that we can give better wreaths than anyone else. Most people admit they hate going to funerals, but they go, not out of respect for the dead but because of their own respect that they think they would be if they did not go. They weep because it is the thing to weep. And gloom breeds gloom. Funeral services are tedious. Ministers sermons are dull and trite, the singing is usually bad and the people that attend are a bunch of artificial puppets. All this helps the clerical profession to make money.

Lastly, funerals are unsanitary. The mere thought of someone playing about with a corpse is fixing it up to look life-like. More perversity. The waste of money spent in beautiful coffins (another method of expressing our vanity) that are destined to rot uselessly in the ground. Think of the acres of ground being wasted for graveyards. Funerals are merely hangover from a primitive civilization, they are a relic of a past age and should be abolished. All bodies should be immediately taken over by the state and destroyed in a quick sanitary manner. Tons of good fertilizer could be utilized from the number of people that die annually and would advance rather than retard, progress.

Quad Wrangles

Arise, you noble, used-to-Boy Scouts, your country's life is being trampled on! Not literally of course, don't ever tread anything literally in the time, but yesterday was a rainy day and the flag, very fittingly at the mast, hung like a dejected towel in the storm. If the janitor can't remember that it should be taken in, why not create a Grand High Flag Custodian for State? Someone like Skinny Mathison would do very nicely.

Sign on one of these foolish San Jose churches, "No Dancing Tonight. 6:30 Sermon on the Brotherhood of Man."

Being possessed of feminine curiosity, we have started asking questions among the males. One was asked, "What would you do if you were a girl. Here are some samples:

Dario Simoni: If I were a girl I'd get married and go to school. Theron Fox: If I were a girl, I wouldn't leave lipstick as dead evidence. Adam Vagts: I'd be a clinging vine. Bill Madden: If I were a girl I'd learn how to smoke and refrain from waving a cigarette around to attract attention.

January 24 Will See Entrance of "Tea Room" on San Jose Campus

A tea room for San Jose State! No, we are not imagining things. The tea room management class, will be opened on Tuesday, January 24. Room 13 of the Home-Making building, is being redecorated in an attractive scheme for the purpose.

Excellent food, planned and prepared by Mrs. Dowdle's tea room management class, will be served to the students, faculty, and their friends, every Tuesday and Thursday from 11:45 to 12:45. Special 25c and 35c luncheons as well as a la carte service, will be featured.

Many departments of the college have been very co-operative in making the tea room a success. Betty Gill and Margaret Rosebrook, students of the art department, and Elizabeth Ballin, a former State student, are painting a unique mural scene on the wall. The painting depicts the evolution of cookery, from the stone age to the modern robot era. Miss Hoisholt is supervising the work. Clever little menu cards were designed by Miss Hoisholt's class, and screens were decorated by Mrs. Turner's students. Charming apricot colored costumes for the girls who are to do the serving, were designed by the clothing department. Industrial arts students are completing a sign which will be placed in the hall.

In addition to the transformation of the room itself, it will feature new china, glassware, colorful table linen, and dainty new

Monday Sees Beginning of Y. M. C. A. Drive For Membership

Beginning last Monday, the College Y. M. C. A. began a membership drive to increase the already very active list of prominent young men on the campus. It is hoped that the roll call will be increased by at least fifteen new active members. A very novel scheme was instituted whereby the present membership would be increased. Three teams were chosen. Ambrose Nichols was made captain of the first team; Randall Patterson, captain of the second; and Marvin Hockabout, captain of the third. The team securing the most members in the one week that the drive is on, is to be the recipient of a banquet to be graciously given by the losing team. The team that comes in second, must wash all dishes and do all other necessary K. P. duty.

Remember, if there is any other student in school who wishes to join this very worthwhile organization, see the team captains. No more members will be admitted after Friday for the balance of this quarter.

Monday noon the victors and vanquished will be given their banquet in the Home-Making building.

This scheme is just another novel idea of the College Y. M. C. A. of which Harry Krytzer is president, and Hugh Staffelbach, vice president. The results of the contest will be published in an early issue of next week's paper. To date Patterson's team has secured the most members, with Ambrose Nicholls running a very close second.

curtains, all in a harmonious scheme.

Members of the class, who will do the planning, preparing, and serving of food, are Ada Gardner, Betty Biddle, Mira Arms, Jeanette Wold, Gertrude Van Beak, Dorothy Smith, Estella Jones, and Beatrice Anderson. Mrs. Dowdle will be in charge.

Everyone at State will no doubt anticipate with pleasure the opening of the tea room, and they will not be disappointed, for it offers attractive, efficient service at minimum cost. Success to the tea room management class in its new venture!

Ten Volume English Dictionary Is Added To State College Library

During the past week the College Library has made an expensive and beautiful addition to its already excellent collection of books. It is the 10 volume edition of the New English Dictionary. The book is sometimes referred to as the Oxford Dictionary and has been published by the Oxford Clarendon Press.

This dictionary is definitely the greatest lexicographical work ever undertaken. The task of compiling this dictionary was done by Sir James Murray, who began the work in 1857.

The Oxford Dictionary has been compiled on an utterly different plan than any other dictionary, and is also meant to serve a different purpose. Its text deals with the historical development of all the words in the English language, showing the evolution of each word included, from the date of its introduction into the language until nineteen twenty-eight. Any difference in meaning, spelling, pronunciation, usage, etc., at different periods during the last 800 years are given and illustrated by quotations from the works of more than 5000 authors. The vocabulary is remarkably inclusive, and aimed at including all the words now in use or known to have been in use since 1150 A. D.

The most important use of this dictionary is for historical uses. While not intentionally encyclopedic, it contains a good deal of encyclopedic information, including some not given in other dictionaries. It also includes many slang words and Americanisms, and where such words are included the information is often better than in slang dictionaries.

The volumes, in all, contain 15,000 pages, the work of a life time. There are only few copies in existence and our library is among the honored few to possess such a work. The librarians hope the students will find it useful. (Information through courtesy of Miss Dora Smith, Librarian.)

Continuous Learning Is Important in American Life, Says Director

"Lifelong learning is an important factor in re-shaping American life," is the remark made by the Director of the University of California Extension Division, Professor Leon J. Richardson.

In order to keep up with the changes that are constantly occurring in the world today many persons are taking advantage of the educational facilities that are offered.

Of the 35,000 students in the Extension Division alone, many are having to make great sacrifices in order to carry on their studies.

Professor Richardson explained that "most individuals dip lightly into subject after subject, getting such good as may be had from wholesome entertainment or mild stimulation. Others grasp deeper possibilities.

Many elderly people as well as younger ones are enrolled in the Extension Division.

wanted for the last hundred years.

3. Broader than industry is the effect upon our whole social life. The price system cannot exist in the machine age. Under the price system a $218,000,000.00 debt has piled up and yet the dollar is not fixed. Not enough purchasing power in the hands of the people. Under this the price system is doomed to collapse. Capitalism goes with the price system, which in turn will result in technocracy. An energy survey is being taken for 3,000 commodities to see the cost of production and find the part man plays in production, and also to find out if work can be done away with. The technocrats are trying to find out the physical resources of the nation and just how little man can work. Things will be valued in terms of energy.

Array of Freshman Cinder Aspirants In Daily Practice

Babes Bid Fair To Make New Records in Competition

Freshman sports are underway at State. 1932-33 marks the first year of such in a real way. In former years the Frosh teams were attempted in a haphazard way, the teams usually disbanding after a few weeks. This year things have been different. The Frosh football team under Erwin Blesh went over in a big way. At present Blesh is guiding the first year men through a heavy schedule basketball campaign.

Now comes track. With about 30 men limbering up daily with the varsity tracksters, and an eight meet schedule arranger, aspects for a successful freshman campaign are exceptionally bright.

Coaching the yearling track and field men will be Will Hubbard, assistant football coach, and head baseball mentor.

From present appearances it looks as though the Freshman team will be made up of mostly field men. Those men signed up for the field events surpass the runners by a great margin—in numbers at least. Approximately three-quarters of the Freshman roster are linked with the field events. Most of the field men extend their efforts in the way of pole vaulting.

Three men, Davis, Watson, and McAuley, are outstanding among the pole vaulters. Jack Davis, a transfer from Los Angeles J. C., leads the field. Last year Davis cleared 12 feet 6, if he goes that high this year he will be a cinch to cop first place in all the Frosh meets. Burt Watson, of Erie, Pennsylvania, is another exceptionally good vaulter. Don McAuley, vaulting for Los Gatos High last year, was rated as one of the best in the valley.

Frank Gleason, former San Jose High javelin tosser, who copped a first place in P. A. L. last season, is working out daily and will bear the burden of the Frosh in the javelin throw. Watson and Sleeper are javelin throwers of fair ability.

Not much is known about the other field men which include: Baugess, Hickman, pole vaulters; Cothran, Walton, high jumpers; Jennings and Sleeper, broad jumpers; Windsor, Raymond, Lompa, weight men.

Covello, Cothran, Miller, Paul, are signed up for the sprints. Middle distance men are Walton, Kiperash, Haeberle, and Leslie.

The Freshmen men are unknown quantities. Their high school reputations can be forgotten. They are starting over again. Many of those who had big high school "reps" will not fare so well in college while some high school nobody will make good. We will know before long who the Freshman track stars really are.

Coach Walker Arranges Tough Schedule for Swimming Team

Good? They've got to be good. When you get a slant at some of the teams Coach Charlie Walker is corresponding with concerning swimming meets in the near future, you'll realize the Spartan mermen will have to be better than good. They will have to be the best. Walker states that he is contacting with Stanford Varsity, California Varsity, San Francisco Olympic Club, Athens Cluy from Oakland, Amblers Club from Stockton, San Francisco State Teachers, Menlo Junior College, and several others.

The boys are certainly taking on a tough schedule and too much can't be expected of them when they run up against some of these better organized and more experienced teams. However, we can expect our boys to drop many of those listed and give the "big shots" a lot of trouble.

The first meet will possibly be with Stanford, and can be expected some time in the near future.

Yes sir! It looks like San Jose is going "big time" in all sports.

Chico State has scheduled the University of Nevada in football next year. The game, to be held in Chico, is expected to be a big drawing card for the district.

Frosh Basketeers Swamp Santa Clara High School; 53-16

Biddle Again High Point Man With 18 Points; Frosh Improve

After leisurely playing through the first three quarters of a basketball game without so much as getting up a perspiration over the idea, the Spartan Babes suddenly went on a basket-shooting orgy in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter at Santa Clara Tuesday night. Result: Spartans 53, Santa Clara High 16.

The Babes started out slow, taking the lead at 12-6, and running it up to 24-122 at the half. The first string had held a 22-6 lead when they left the floor. The second string opened the second half, but not much scoring was done, so the first five re-entered the game about three minutes from the close of the third stanza. They failed to show much of an inclination to score, the third quarter ending with State on the long end of a 28-14 tally.

Came the fourth quarter and fireworks. The eastern net of the Santa Clara crackerbox was literally flooded with basketballs. In just exactly three minutes, the Babes had run the score from 28-14 to 48-14, in an unmolested string of field goals. Three of these came in a row without a Santa Clara man laying a hand on the ball. Then in went the second string to run up a final score of 53-16.

Biddle and Lindner were high point men for the Babes, making 18 and 14 points respectively. Cacitti also dumped in some nice buckets, while Wing and Arnerich formed an impenetrable defense.

The box score:

S. J. State Frosh	Fg.	Ft.	Pts.

Freshmen Enter Fast Team in Tournament

In spite of the very formidable Senior, Junior, and Sophomore teams, the Frosh are determined not to fall behind in the current intra-mural tournament. As far as number of teams signed up they are leading the league, and then some. If they can't win on playing ability they can pile up points on the number of men entered. The industry of Byron Lanphear is to be commended for this large sign-up.

Journalistic Society Picks Five Spartans for Conference Team

Five members of the championship San Jose eleven were awarded positions on the All-Conference team selected by the Western division of Alpha Phi Gamma, National Honorary Journalistic Fraternity, at their convention held at San Francisco State, November 24 to 26. Wool, Hubbard, Baracchi, Hornbeck and Simoni were the Spartan players to receive certificates for their outstanding performances during the 1932 gridiron season.

Captain Bud Hubbard was the unanimous choice of seven sports writers and three coaches for the right end position. He was the only player to receive the maximum number of votes. Jack Wool, who was considered by his teammates to be the most valuable player on the San Jose squad, was selected for the left halfback post, carrying nine of the ten votes cast. Charley Baracchi, left end, and Mel Hornbeck, right guard, each received six votes in the balloting. Dario Simoni, right tackle caught the eye of most of the coaches who helped pick this All-Star eleven, but did not fare so well with the sports writers. He received five votes, which was two more than Madriga of Nevada, was able to muster.

Nevada, the Spartans' closest competitor in the Far Western Conference race, was awarded three positions on the All-Star team. Jack Hill, quarterback, and Ole Theis, left tackle, led the contingent from Reno with nine votes. Tom Cashill was selected for center over Niswander of Fresno and Whitaker of San Jose.

The College of Pacific placed two stars on the team, "Biff" Strobridge and Tommy Wilson, backfield aces. The remaining position, left guard, was awarded to Feichtmeir of Fresno, in a close race with Beemer of Nevada.

Sportmanship, ability on offense and defense, and leadership, were the points stressed by the judges in making their selections.

The Alpha Phi Gamma selections follow:

Name	Pos.	School
Hubbard	RE	San Jose
Simoni	RT	San Jose
Hornbeck	RG	San Jose
Cashill	C	Nevada
Feichtmeir	LG	Fresno
Theis	LT	Nevada
Baracchi	LE	San Jose
Strobridge	F	Pacific
Wool	LH	San Jose
T. Wilson	RH	Pacific
Jack Hill	Q	Nevada

Richardson Will Captain Pacific Track Team

Captaining Pacific's track team this year will be Rolly Richardson, a hurdler by profession. He will have to look to his laurels in the Conference meet, however, as another Captain, Herb Denham of Fresno State, knows his way over the barriers in no uncertain fashion.

Lou Salvato ought to rank right up with the leading sprinters of the coast this season. For the past two years this diminutive Spartan star has been developing rapidly, and the current season ought to find him better than ever.

Last year Lou shared springing honors with Captain Don Harder, and it is interesting to note that in the eight major meets in which the Spartans participated in, he never went unplaced in the hundred. Three times did he breast the tape as winner. His first official victory of the season came in the College of Pacific meet. Here Lou ran one of the best races of his career to come home in 9.7. The following week he turned in a 9.8 performance against the Olympic Club on the slow Spartan track. Fourteen days later he brought this winning strain to a climax by defeating a distinguished field of sprinters for the Far Western Conference championship. The time was once again 9.8, tying the existing Conference record. The Fresno Relays were held the following Saturday. Running in the Class "B" college hundred yard dash, Lou was set back a yard for jumping the gun. This in spite of this handicap, he took third place behind Montague of U. S. F., and Bellman of Occidental, who battled to the tape in 9.7. Earlier in the season this Spartan speedster pushed Harder to the tape in two performances, and it was only the first two meets of the schedule that he fell as low as this place.

These figures demonstrate quite conclusively that Salvato comes along slowly and reaches his sprinting peak when it is most needed, at the end of the season.

He is not quite as strong as the 220 as he is in the 100, lacking the strength for the longer route. Nevertheless, he can cover the furlong in better than average clocking. His mark of 21.9, which he made against the Olympic Club, is not to be sneezed at by any matter of means.

Wallace Leslie did some sensational high jumping in the Conference meet last year when he cleared 6 feet 1 1/2 inches for second place behind the great Walt Marty of Fresno. If he can duplicate this performance this year, the Spartans will not have to worry about points in this event.

The new surface, a combination of clay and cinders, which is being laid on the track at Spartan Field, ought to improve conditions considerably. The local running plant has long been notoriously slow due mainly to its soft and sandy composition. With a harder covering conditions ought to be improved considerably.

Leo Harris, Fresno State's new football mentor, has ordered spring practice to get under way in April. Evidently Mr. Harris is determined that Fresno will finish considerably higher than last year when it's all said and done next November.
